INTRODUCTION

Happy Spring! Hoo Boy, has it ever been a great start to Spring in Southern Ontario! The weather keeps teasing us; some days very warm, then others more seasonal, but who can complain; it is not snowing! Last year spring took awhile to get going, it was wet and cool. Then the summer was not much better, cool and wet as I remember it, with very few really hot days. This bodes well for a long, hot, but dry summer (water rationing again?); which should mean the Wasaga Beach Training Camp on June 18th has a very good chance for great weather workouts on the beach. Hopefully, Mark Lefebvre's knee will be up to a visit to Camp; Marc had knee surgery in March (hope all is well, Marc).

This month the quarterly FOCUS is supplemented with a separate, special issue "FOCUS on Bahamas 2010". That was a special effort of sharing photos and stories from karate-kas who visited the Bahamas. We wish to thank all the members north and south who helped organize and arrange the events in the Bahamas, and the travel and accommodations; there were many involved and the success of the whole trip was because of you. Once again, I would personally like to thank Sensei Lenore Eng Shodan (1st Dan) and Veronica Cizmar Shodan, our highly organized BahamaMamas for the great job you did in pulling this together. Lenore was the editor for "FOCUS on Bahamas 2010". She had to sift through over 1,300 photos to pick some for the issue. She also set up the Flickr account so everyone can see those thousands of pictures.

Congratulations to Sensei Roxanne Hinds (Jamaica) and Monique Shepherd (South Florida, USA) who were both promoted to Nidan (2nd Dan). They were unable to attend the Awards Night in the Bahamas. > EDITOR ROBB DODS

It's better in the Bahamas ☺

TRAINING CAMP
NEWS

A warm spring hello to all!

As you can see, we have had a wonderful spring season with record setting temperatures (in Ontario, at least). I think I can speak for many when I say that this is something I can definitely get used to!

Along with the budding trees and April showers bringing May flowers (I had to throw that in for the gardeners) comes the reminder that our 37th Annual Wasaga Beach Training Camp is just around the corner. Camp this year takes place from Friday, June 18th to Sunday, June 20th and if this early gorgeous weather is any indication, we are in for a terrific weekend.

The first deposit for camp is due by April 21st (or asap after reading FOCUS) and the final payment is due by May 19th. Please keep in mind that you are free to decide to attend right up until the day of camp however, preregistration is encouraged to ensure we have booked the right amount of cabins and to get an approximate head count to plan events.

I would encourage you all to attend our 37th annual Training camp as this is a wonderful time to train and get to know other Sensei and karate-kas from our sister clubs and witness the relaxing atmosphere of our Saturday evening potluck, go-cart challenge and bonfire.

If you have any questions or require additional information, please do not hesitate to contact me at vanimal7@yahoo.com or check out the TWKK website under "Upcoming Events" http://torontowadokai.com/?page\_id=115.

I look forward to seeing you all on the beach, kicking up sand!!!

In harmony,

KARATE HEALTH*TIME TO RE-THINK THOSE SIT-UPS?

From a MACLEANS.CA Article

BY SENSEI ROBB DODS ROKUDAN (6TH DAN)

I came across an article by Patricia Treble on January 19, 2010, entitled “The man who wants to kill crunches”. The article was sharing the findings of a Canadian professor of spine biomechanics at the University of Waterloo, Stuart McGill, who “rails” about the dangers of the ubiquitous sit-up.

Many of the exercises we do we learn by rote from many instructors in our life. If you are an instructor you are most likely to lead exercises the way you were taught. Everyone doing physical exercise and especially those teaching should be aware of new studies about the do’s and don’ts of the various methods of exercise. All those who instruct others should question your own methods from time to time and be prepared to change/modify your ways for the safety of your students.

The following are some highlights from this article, which can be found at <http://www2.macleans.ca/2010/01/19/the-man-who-wants-to-kill-crunches>.

It doesn’t matter whether they are the full sit-ups beloved by military trainers or the crunch versions so ubiquitous in gyms. “What happens when you perform a sit-up?” he asks. “The spine is flexed into the position at which it damages sooner.”

...While there are lots of ways to injure a back, the sit-up is an easily preventable one. According to his research, a crunch or traditional sit-up generates at least 3,350 newtons (the equivalent of 340 kg) of compressive force on the spine. The U.S. National Institute for Occupational Safety and Health states that anything above 3,300 newtons is unsafe.

McGill suggests replacing sit-ups with exercises to strengthen the core while not bending the spine: bridges, planks, leg extensions, bird dogs, and “stir the pot.” The bird dog, for instance, simply involves getting on all fours and, while keeping the core muscles tight, extending the opposite arm and leg, then switching limbs. “Stir the pot” is a more complex movement: moving shoulders in a small circle while in a prone push-up position with forearms balanced on an exercise ball.

...Ian Crosby of the Calgary Fire Department saw the shift [to outside the worlds of academia and elite athletics] first-hand. He’s on a committee of the International Association of Fire Fighters that establishes criteria for the make-or-break fitness test.

...For those who believe sit-ups are the only key to strong abdominals, Crosby points to research that shows the new movements can be just as effective in improving core strength. A study of U.S. soldiers published earlier this year in Medicine & Science in Sports & Exercise compared sit-ups with back-friendly core stabilization exercises, including bird dogs, and found there was no difference in overall fitness between the two groups. In fact, those who did core exercises showed significant improvement in the army’s sit-up test.

McGill’s message is... blunt: “There are only so many bends in your spine until the discs eventually herniate.
